

Kruismentvlei Cottages and Camp site Piket-Bo-Berg, Piketberg Mountain

You will never tick this off as a “been-there-done-that” visit as your soul will call you back to this mountain time and time again.

A self-catering cottage and an eco friendly campsite offers accommodation to varied traveling-types – the more luxury orientated and the more adventurous.

The camp site, nestled between sandstone outcrops, gives a total feeling of solitude. A fully equipped boma style kitchen makes cooking a pleasure for the camper. Eco friendly compost toilets are in keeping with the culture on this farm where compost making and earthworm farming forms part of the farming system. Equipped tents can be arranged for the “lazy” camper or the space deprived traveler.

Hooting owls and frog choirs are the only noise you have to endure in the quiet of the evening. Shimmering rock formations change shape and colour as the sun sheds its light. Well laid out hiking trails lead you through pristine fynbos and the various koppies that abound on the farm. The caves with their San paintings are a reminder of who moved before us!

Every last Saturday of the month a farmer's market under the Oak trees in the garden, offers fresh produce to the public.

This is one place where you can let your soul soar with the eagles or observe life with the owls.

Hiking; cycling, dirt jumping, tennis, swimming, and satellite spotting are there for the taking. Medicinal herbs, compost making, earth worm farming and recycling are just some of the nature projects on the farm that can be viewed anytime.

Kruismentvlei is situated 20 km off the N7 approximately an hours drive north of Cape Town. Taking the Versfeld Pass up the Piketberg mountain rewards any traveller with a true gem discovered by some and experienced by a selected few. You are invited to be part of the selected few!
